Wenford Dries
The Wenford Clay Dries were built in the early part of the 20th century as part of the china clay industry. Clay sherry was produced from the alluvium to the dries. As part of the Second World War it is understood that dries were in use until 2002.

Red Deer
Often spotted on Bodmin Moor the Red Deer is the UK's largest land mammal. Their summer coat is reddish brown to brown, and their winter coat is brown to grey. Large stags can be easily identified by their highly branched antlers.

Common Lizard
Commonly found near water or moist areas and they are considered a first of many places. They also like basking and are sometimes found on the steep banks around railway lines. The male lizard is usually brown in colour and the female often has dark stripes.

Fox
This beautiful animal has a long narrow snout. Foxes are known for storing food, burying it under leaves, or soil to eat later. Males are called dogs, females vixens and their young are referred to as cubs.

Holland Bridge
A picturesque 14th Century sandstone bridge, with its four pointed arches and rounded arch. The bridge survived the Great Flood of 1914 July 18th when levels of water rose to 16 feet high, but the Camel Valley from Davidstow.

Red Deer
Other spotted on Bodmin Moor the Red Deer is the UK's largest land mammal. Their summer coat is reddish brown to brown, and their winter coat is brown to grey. Large stags can be easily identified by their highly branched antlers.

Barn Owl
With its long wings and long legs it can be distinguished from other owls due to its short and squarish tail. Its day measure between 20 and 45 cm in length with a wingspan between 75 and 110 cm.
